Introduction

The Oliver McGowan Mandatory Training has been created by Health Education England, NHS England, Skills for Care, people with a learning disability and autistic people.

Oliver McGowan was a young man with autism and a learning disability. Oliver sadly died because staff who cared for him did not have the skills and knowledge to look after him.

The Oliver McGowan Mandatory Training will help staff know how to give the best care to autistic people and people with learning disabilities.

We would like others to be involved in delivering our training.

We are looking for:

Experts with lived experience - this means you have a learning disability or you are autistic.

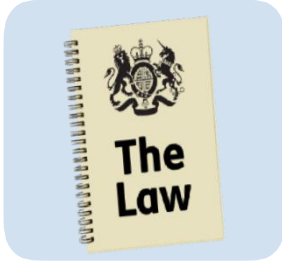

Education providers - this means you train or teach others, or you are part of an organisation that trains or teaches others.

If you are an expert with lived experience and you are interested in delivering The Oliver McGowan Mandatory Training, please fill in this trainer interest form.

How we use the information you give us

The way ACC use people's personal information is covered by a law. This law is called the General Data Protection Regulation.

The information you give us is added to a list and can only be seen by the ACC team who work on this training.

ACC will contact you to tell you about any opportunities they have or how you can get involved with their work.

Your information will be deleted after 6 months.

If you would like to look at or change the information we have about you, or ask any questions, please email: contact@accconsulting.co.uk
